President John Rex Winder Passes Peacefully Away

First Councillor to President Joseph F. Smith Called at His Home on West Temple Street After Illness Following Pneumonia—Funeral Held in the Tabernacle on Thursday at 11 a. m.

(From Deseret News, March 28)

John Rex Winder, first councillor to President Joseph F. Smith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, died at his home at 49 North West Temple street at 7:20 o'clock Sunday Night. The end came rather unexpectedly, on account of the apparent improvement of his condition during the afternoon and early evening, but his passing was peaceful and he closed his eyes in death almost as if he had been falling asleep. Mrs. Winder and his son John R. Winder, Jr., were at the bedside when he expired.

President John R. Winder had been ill for more than two months with pneumonia. At one time he was so much improved as to give great hopes of his complete recovery, but a relapse set in and he continued to grow weaker day by day, although he battled courageously for life until the last moment. His strong mentality and remarkable physical condition aided him materially in prolonging his life, but he seemed resigned when the time came, and a few moments before death inhaled oxygen from a tube kept by him in case of emergency, he lay back on his pillow and closed his eyes in his last sleep.

The news of President Winder's death spread rapidly, and the members of the family, President Smith and others were summoned. After conferring with the members of the quorum of the twelve and it was tentatively decided that the funeral would be held in the Tabernacle at 11 o'clock next Thursday morning.

HIS PUBLIC CAREER

In his public career extending over half a century in this state, President Winder became one of the foremost figures in Commercial as well as religious affairs. He was known far and wide as the "Father of the State Fair," having been elected a director of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Association at the time of its organization in 1856, and acting as its president from 1872 until 1900. The State Fair was his special pride and the growth and development of the State as progressively shown in these annual occasions, with the source of great satisfaction to him.

That his activities had not lessened a whit after half a century of business life, was shown when the new Hotel Utah was projected. President Winder was one of the most enthusiastic promoters of the magnificent structure, and in addition to subscribing liberally himself he secured by his persona efforts a large number of subscriptions to the stock of the new hotelery. One of his main ambitions, as expressed in a recent social gathering in the Fourteenth ward hall was that as the Almighty had spared his life until he was nearly 80 years of age, he hoped that he might live to see Hotel Utah completed.

BORN IN KENT, ENGLAND.

John Rex Winder was the son of Richard and Sophia Collins Winder and was born at Biddenden, county of Kent, England, Dec. 17, 1821. When he was about 20 years old John R. Winder went to London, where he obtained employment in a West End shoe store, where he married Ellen Walters, Nov. 24, 1845. One day in July, 1848, while in the store he picked up a fragment of torn-up letter, upon which were written the words, "Latter-day Saints." He wondered what it meant for he had never seen or heard the name before. He asked one of the clerks about it, and was told that there was such a church in America, and that they had a prophet named Joseph Smith. He was also told where they held their meetings in Liverpool, and he attended the meetings and was baptized Sept. 20, 1848, by Elder Thomas D. Brown. On the 13th of the following month his wife was baptized by Elder Orson Pratt.

In 1853 Elder Winder with his wife and three daughters sailed for America on the ship Elvira Owen. When about to days out from Liverpool, he was taken down with the smallpox. William Jones one of the company, died of the disease and was buried at sea. Elder Winder recovered, however, and arrived at New Orleans with his family in good health. At Keokuk, Elder Winder joined Joseph W. Young's company and with his young crossed the plains, arriving at Salt Lake City, Oct. 10, 1853.

CONDUCTED A TANNERY.

Soon after his arrival he engaged in business with Samuel Mulliner in conducting a tannery. In 1855 he entered partnership with William Jennings, in the meat market and tannery business. Prior to this he had become prominent as a military man, having joined the Nauvoo Legion in 1855. He was captain of a company of tanners, and was in Echo canyon during the fall and winter of 1857-8, being left with 50 men to guard the canyon.

On the 8th of March, 1858, he raised 85 mounted men and accompanied by Gen. Geo. D. Grant through Tooele county and in the great desert in pursuit of a band of Indians, who had stolen a large number of horses from the settlers in Tooele county. The pursuing party was caught in a blizzard on the desert, lost the trail of the Indians and returned to Salt Lake City. Shortly after this, Capt. Winder was called with a company of men to take charge of the defences in Echo canyon, where he remained until after the "war" was over.

Capt. Winder having dissolved partnership with William Jennings entered into partnership with President Young and Feranora Little, and built a tannery on Parley's canyon creek. While engaged in this business he purchased his country home at Poplar Farm, and commenced the pursuits of stockraising and farming, in which he took great delight. The tanning business was suspended in a few years, when bark became scarce and competition became keen.

The funeral of President John R. Winder was held on March 31st in the Tabernacle, the speakers were: Elder W. W. Riter, Bishop George Romney, Elder B. F. Grant, Pres. Anthony H. Lund, Pres. R. W. Young, Elder Heber M. Wells, Pres. Nephi L. Morris, Pres. Francis M. Lyman, Elder Heber J. Grant, and Pres. Joseph F. Smith. There were more than 2,000 people at the cemetery.

Raymond Military Band

To Take Part in Contest At Edmonton.

The Raymond Military Band, and the Raymond Concert Band held a meeting in the Oddfellows Hall Saturday evening and organized a band which will be known as the Raymond Military Band.

The new band elected Mayor Geo. H. Budd as President, Mr. G. S. Newton as Leader, Mr. G. W. Rouse as Manager, and Mr. Royal C. Owen as Sec. Treas.

The question of entering the band competition at Edmonton in May was discussed, and the members decided unanimously in favor of going.

The sentiment of the meeting was very encouraging and Mr. Newton expressed the belief that with the combined efforts of the members Raymond could produce one of the best amateur bands in the Province.

The band boys have held several practices since the organization and are expecting to put on a concert in the near future to raise funds to defray their expenses to Edmonton.

How Magrath Got an Extension to School District

The Right Way

A committee consisting of Mayor and members of School Board went to Edmonton and secured consent of the Government.

Then a mass meeting of the people was called and the question was submitted to the people. The day of the meeting the house was packed with people. The question was discussed thoroughly and finally a motion was put, and carried with one dissenting vote.

THE EASY WAY

How Raymond got an extension of nineteen sections to School District.

A self appointed committee waited on the Government, and made a few signers consisting of the School Board members and that was all.

Sunny Naples Welcomes Roosevelt

Naples, April 2.—The blue bay of Naples batted in glorious sunshine, never was more beautiful than when the steamer Prinz Heinrich, with the Roosevelt family on board, steamed into the harbor at 8:30 this morning. Notwithstanding the early hour the waterfront was lined with thousands who wished to share in the welcome to Mr. Roosevelt upon his return from Africa.

Mr. Roosevelt attired in a grey tuck suit and wearing a soft black felt hat appeared in splendid health and spirits. His weather beaten face gave him the appearance of a trained athlete. He spoke with pleasure of setting his feet again upon European soil and of feeling that at last he was homeward bound.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the voyage from Alexandria had been without special incident and had been accomplished in perfect weather. The Roosevelts with those who had come to formally receive them, were soon whirled away in automobiles to the Excelsior hotel. As the motor cars made their way through the crowded streets, Mr. Roosevelt raised his hat and smilingly bowed right and left in acknowledgement of repeated cheers.

No sooner had he reached the hotel than the former president was besieged by newspaper men. Promptly and firmly he reiterated his refusal to discuss any phase of American politics or other affairs, adding that he would stick to his announced policy throughout his European tour. Any statements purporting to have come from him would be unauthorized.

At this hotel Mr. Roosevelt found awaiting him an invitation from the municipal authorities of Rome who wished to give a dinner and reception in his honor at the historic capital. The former president accepted the invitation and fixed the date for Wednesday evening next. Following this he will leave for Spezia. Otherwise there will be no change in the program arranged for his visit in Rome.

Rush to Canada Greatest Ever

London, March 28.—In consequence of the emigration boom, more companies are running extra boats. The Canadian Pacific Railway has engaged the Montrose, carrying over a thousand third class passengers. During April, fifteen liners will sail, every second and third cabin is booked. Nearly 18,000 emigrants sailed during March. This rate at least will be maintained until June. A much better people is emigrating, a large percentage being farmers, and agricultural laborers. The Canadian Pacific is inaugurating a scheme of ready-made poultry farms for women. The Northumberland miner's union has issued a warning to members against going to Nova Scotia.

Painful Accident At Sugar Factory

Shortly after one o'clock p. m. Tuesday the 5th, Geo. A. Evans while brazing a copper tube in one of the carbonation tanks in the Sugar Factory, was badly burned about the face and hands.

The accident occurred through the feed pipe from the gasoline tank becoming disconnected, and giving free vent to several gallons of gasoline under about forty pounds pressure. The tank in which Mr. Evans was working is about 6 feet wide, 12 feet long, and 10 feet high. The brazing torch was burning vigorously within the tank, when the break occurred, and the gasoline shot into the tank, it instantly ignited, and the whole interior of the tank became a mass of flames.

Through these flames Mr. Evans was forced to climb in order to reach the small opening at the top of the tank ten feet above him. As he was making the final struggle which landed him outside the tank, he almost fell backward, and had he done so his chance for life would have been small.

Some of the boys, working nearby, rushed to his assistance, and succeeded in tearing off his clothing, and extinguishing the flames before his body was injured by the fire. His hair was singed to a crisp and his face and hands were severely burned. However, Dr. Rivers, who is attending him, gives good hopes for a speedy recovery.

One of Raymond's Pioneers Dead

At Gridley, Cal., on March 4, Chester Southworth, a highly esteemed member of the Mormon colony, expired suddenly, while working in his yard, of heart failure, having been apparently well up to his death, although he had complained of pains in his chest. He was born in Nauvoo Ill. Aug. 22, 1834, and went to Utah in 1852 with his parents, and located at Farmington. In 1862 removed to Brigham City, where he married Miss Agnes Caldwell who survives him. In 1873 this family moved to Bear Lake Ida, where he lived until the year 1900 when they went to Alberta, Can., and was one of the first to help build several Mormon towns along the border. He lived in Tabor, Alta., a few years prior to going to Gridley, where he was engaged in light farming. He was associated with many of the veteran actors of Utah, namely Phil Marretts, the McEwans and others, and wherever Mr. Southworth went he was instrumental in organizing a home dramatic club to entertain the settlers and for the benefit of the Church, and auxiliary organization. He was a staunch Latter-day Saint. Besides his wife, he is survived by six daughters and four sons and a large circle of friends to mourn his departure.

The Raymond Military Band is now completely organized and working in harmony. Under the leadership of Mr. S. S. Newton the Band is going to enter the Band Competition which is to be held at Edmonton on the 3rd of March, and with the united efforts on the boys part, will be able to compete successfully with any of the Amateur Bands in Alberta.

This will require financial support and we feel that they will be supplied with all the financial support they will need.

People are pretty nearly case-hardened enough to expect a woman wearing anything on her head but there was a "turnout" on George street on Saturday that caused passersby to come to attention.
A woman was at a hat store on George street and when she was coming out a small felt hat that was on an upper shelf, tumble down and landed on the headpiece of the lady. There it stuck among the feathers, tin cans, rope and other articles that it took to make up the trimming. The lady did not know that another deek had been put on her skypiece and she walked a considerable distance before becoming aware of why people were staring at her. Then she blushed and hurried back to the store. —Peterborough Review.

The following is clipped from the Magrath Pioneer—

"Have animals reason? A little incident came to our notice last week which we believe will solve the problem. Mr. Al Miller has a very ingenious cow which has a mania for invading the premises of others. These invasions being so numerous and the looks of his neighbors became so dark that he finally decided to tie the animal up. But alas, no sooner was it tied up than it was out again on its trail of destruction.
He tied the cow up again and hid behind the barn to watch the movement. And what happened?
The cow untied the rope and marched out of the corral. It is now under lock and key.

An Eight Hour Day for the Farmer.

I fancy the farmer who reads this head-line will say, "well, now, what fool thing is this!" Fact is, the farmer is liable to be so taken up these days by the (to him) pleasant reading in the market reports, he will not notice anything else unless we put a striking head to it. But why should an eight-hour day for the farmer be considered out of the way? Is there not now before both houses, and almost all over the world a movement going on to secure an eight-hour day for the work (with a full day's pay)? Surely a farmer should be considered a laborer. Some, indeed, have to do all the work on one hundred acres, and that is sure going some.

Has the urban laborer degenerated so he cannot do over eight hours a day, or does he want more time for sport? The farmer surely is entitled to as good a time. Or is the purpose of an eight-hour day to work more to others; that is, make work for three men what two ought to do? I don't see as the farmers can kick at that, because he will have three months to feed, instead of two. But perhaps the eight-hour-a-day-man expects to live upon two meals a day. But whether he intends to or not, that is what it must come to.

The good book says: "He that will not work, neither shall he eat."

Farmers have been working from twelve to sixteen hours a day; some of us, indeed, have put in our eighteen hours a day, testing cows, and trying to do work a little over the average.

This is all foolishness, according to the latest lights. If a farmer would only work eight hours a day and produce half as much as he does, and if he keeps stock he would only get one third as much, he would get better prices. And surely that would be good for the farmer. It seems getting to be, "Every man for himself, and the devil take the hinder-most."

But the farmer would rather produce more and till his farm properly than see it overgrown with weeds; and that is much better for all. But how is he to produce more without more help? That is his trouble now. By making the urban laborer's days shorter, and keeping up the full day's pay, no one but a fool can be expected to be had to work on a farm, and they are no use. As it is now, though many laborers are brought into the country to work on farms, yet help gets scarcer. And no wonder; it is just like trying to fill a barrel at the spigot with the bungle open. It is no wonder that prices for food stuffs are rising. Every town and city in the country is trying to add to its population, as if the natural increase was not enough.

The movement of population is naturally from the country to the town and city. Man, and woman too, likes to be in a crowd. The wild beast and domesticated alike congregate in herds and flocks. The native and civilized people alike want to be together. Why talk of the peace and quiet of the country? Man's nature craves excitement. Man from the days on the street to the boys in parliament, does not want peace. It is jungle and quarrel.

"Next to nature!" Not much! Man is not a hermit (only) when disappointed in love; he wants to be with the crowd. There is only one thing strong enough to keep people scattered, and that is man's desire to get next to the dollars. For the hope of gain, man has braved all risks and hardships, from clearing this country and making it habitable to the almost inaccessible parts, after gold.

Instead of them seeking to build up cities, more attention should be paid to keep the people on the land. We find towns and cities bountiful manufacturers, giving free sites, loaning cheap money, and exempting from taxes. What is done for the farmer? Nothing. Business has been protected by tariff laws. Trusts and mergers have been formed in order to pay big dividends on watered stock.

What protection has the farmer had? None! To keep him quiet, he has been told that building up these industries would give him a better market for his produce. And it has, sure. The farmer will now surely get his innings. But now he is about getting good prices, what a howl is being made. But five years from now the prices of to-day will seem mighty cheap.

No power can stop this mighty sweep. Irresistably will the consumption increase faster than production. It is much easier to get people into town than to get them back upon the land. So there must be many unemployed. Indeed there are now in the cities of the older countries, but of what are the unemployed? Naturally, business men want the best they can get, that the unemployed are indolent, careless and unfit. It is not from these a farmer can get any benefit. When prices get good and high for farm produce and there is more money in farming than anything else, then, at least we may expect the flow from the country to town of those born in the country to diminish. But by that time the urban population will have so greatly increased that production of food cannot overtake consumption, and we may be very thankful with things as they are. If there is any considerable area stricken with poor crops, there will be many that will have something to howl about.

Labor unions will be cutting a whip for their own back, or saving their muscles and starving their belly, if they get an eight-hour day. It will not injure the farmers, but make prices higher. Labor unions can do a lot of good if wisely directed. And they want to use their influence to lessen the middleman's profit. It is he that has been making his money most easily. Business methods are crude, as shown by the ability of the departmental stores to outsell the small stores. We are getting too many wealthy men for the common good. He who makes his money by industry and business ability is of a benefit to the country, but he that makes his money by combines, trusts, etc., robbing people by laws in his favor, is it no better than a highway robber. And they who make such laws are accomplices. Some who pass now for statesmen will be known to history as time-serving politicians. Laws they have made have built up the urban places at the expense of the rural, and hungry people will curse where others have praised. Is it any wonder that General Booth thinks the world must come to an end soon? Poetic justice would be that the eight-hour-a-day man should die of slow starvation; the bootlickers and drafters choked with money down their throats; combine and trust promoters drowned in their own watered stock, and so on and so forth. And this is called the enlightened age. Some one had better turn on the light—George Rice, in London. Farmer's Advocate.

A worthy gathering are they:
Some fairly worth their weight in gold;
Some just too good to throw away;
Some scarcely worth the place they hold.

Yet well I them, one and all,
These friends so meek and unobtrusive,
Who never fail to come at call,
Nor, if I sold them, turn abusive.
If I have favorite here and there,
And like a monarch, pick and choose,
I never meet an angry stare

Ah well I love these books of mine
That stand so trimly on the shelves,
With here and there a broken line
"Fat quarto" jostling modest "twelves".
